

When I won the scholarship, for Karon Shea Modeling I was shocked, and for a moment I thought I was dreaming. I was very excited to have such an adventure ahead of me. When I started I learned many different things and experienced things that I didn't know before. From; fashion, to makeup, I even learned how to stand, walk, and set a table for dinner. This class did not only teach me how to model, but also to have self confident within myself and not to believe or think I am not perfect enough or even pretty enough to be modeling.

Knowing, that self confidence was a place that I strongly believe, I took most of the points she gave me. I have grown to believe that if you have confidence and you love who you are, nobody or no words could ever bring you down. And I never thought that self confidence was something I needed to learn about in a modeling class, but I was wrong. As a leader you have to be able to believe in yourself, which is a huge key in leadership. If you don't believe in yourself then why will you want other people to follow your lead and learn something from you, or even how can you stand before people and talk about them having self confidence and standing up for themselves. Believing in one self and having faith is a huge key in our lives and many people need to believe in order to succeed and move on.

Lastly, self esteem has and will make me a better leader than I was before . It has helped me grow to become a person I never knew I was and it is still opening new chapters in life for me. Without this program, I would have never known how self esteem or self confidence can do so much for me, and also open my eyes to see things that I never saw and not to allow words to bring me down.
